ANTIOCH HIGH SCHOOL OPENS SEPTEMBER 6

Registration Days Monday and Tuesday. Two New Teachers

Antioch high school, in common with practically all other schools will open the day after Labor day, Sept. 6. Registration days are Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 29 and 30. Juniors and Seniors will register Monday; Freshmen and sophomores on Tuesday. These pupils are urged to be present for registration on these days.

Miss Lucile Slocum, who taught last year at East Moline, will be the teacher in charge of the commercial course. Miss Lucile Putz, of Kankakee, will teach typing and serve as school librarian.

The courses offered and texts used will be about the same as those of last year.

Only Freshmen will attend school on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 6 and 7.

The bus will operate from Grayslake through Lake Villa. It is quite likely that the bus will also operate from Millburn through Hickory Corners.

Wisconsin students, who live 1 1/2 miles closer to Antioch than to any Wisconsin high school may attend at Antioch and have their tuition paid. Books may be purchased on registration days.

NORTH SHORE WORKERS STRIKE

No Buses or Trains Have Operated Since Monday. Settlement Pending

Tuesday morning there was a walk-out of 1,300 union employees of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad, protesting a 15 percent wage cut which was to have become effective on Wednesday. As a result of the walk-out there are no trains operating between Chicago and Milwaukee since Monday, and no North Shore owned buses running on Sheridan road.

Wednesday Harry E. Scheek, federal conciliator of the department of labor, arranged a meeting with representatives of the strikers and of the road officials. He expressed hope of a speedy settlement.

Road Is in Receivership
The railroad has been in receivership since 1932, and officials held the pay cut necessary because of operating losses and insufficient cash on hand. They agreed to restore the wage cut if business improved. Judge William M. Sparks, of the Federal court, approved this action.

The strike is engineered by the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America. This is an affiliation of several distinct railway brotherhoods and there is now some dispute as to which brotherhood will represent the strikers. This will be settled Monday by the NLRB. Strikers are asking for a restoration of the old wage contract pending arbitration.

ELEVEN SMALL TAVERNS CLOSE

Too Many Crusaders—Not Enough Money Makes Trouble for Owners

Records in the office of the county clerk show that eleven taverns have closed in Lake County during 1938. The closing of several of them is charged to the business recession which began to be felt in the spring. Other influences have been the severe floods which diverted a large part of the summer business from the lake resort regions, and the much publicized reform move that has lately swept the county.

In 1937 there were 232 taverns licensed in this county and the resultant revenue to the county was $35,010. Some of the places that have discontinued their beer licenses are still serving soft drinks and sandwiches.

Chain O' Lakes Golfers Beat Burlington Team

Leading the Chain O' Lakes golfing team with a score of 77 each, Ed Mauerman and F. Hawkins led the locals in victory over the Burlington, Wis., team here Sunday afternoon. Other members of the home team were C. Hawkins, M. Maerman, G. Gerber and H. Storms. A high wind blowing over the course made it impossible for the players to register their usual low scores.

Members of the Burlington team were Dr. Schneider, Fred Leach, Phil McCanna, Francis Kuehl, Nate Golden and Chet Beaumont.

Next Sunday the locals will journey to Burlington to engage their rivals on the Brown's Lake course.

MILDRED PANOWSKI FUNERAL TODAY

Well-known Woman Succumbs Monday After Long Illness

Mrs. Mildred A. Wagstaff Panowski died Monday, August 15, at her home on North Main street, after an illness of about five years. She is survived by her husband, Joseph Panowski, one son, three daughters and five grandchildren. Her daughters are Mrs. Gladys Groth, Mrs. Louis Horton and Mrs. Howard Gaston, all of Antioch, and one son, Jack, also of Antioch. Besides the children she leaves five sisters, Mrs. George Bradley, Lake Forest, Mrs. Alex Knox, Waukegan, Mrs. Thomas Russell, Mrs. Rudolph Leuschner and Mrs. Lewis Heusch, Mundelein, and three brothers, Walter Wagstaff, of Libertyville, Ralph and Arthur Wagstaff of Lake Forest.

Funeral services were held at the Strang Funeral Home this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Warren C. Henslee officiating. Interment followed at Liberty Corners cemetery.

Mildred Wagstaff was born in Amberly, Gloucestershire, England, July 8, 1878. As a girl of thirteen years she came to America with her parents, who established residence at Lake Forest. There Mildred lived until her marriage to Joseph Panowski, May 24, 1899.

In 1908 they took up their residence in Antioch and there they made their permanent home and reared their children. A member of St. Ignatius' church, Mrs. Panowski was known to her associates as a lovable, understanding woman. During her long illness she evinced a remarkable fortitude and patience, cheering her family by her very faith and lack of fear or repining. For the past two months her death had been imminent, but her courage never wavered.

LEGION MEMBERS GO TO STATE CONVENTION

Auxiliary Ladies Also Will Attend the Rockford Meet

The delegates or alternates of the Antioch Post American Legion and the Auxiliary will leave Saturday for the State Convention to be held in Rockford. The delegates of the Auxiliary are Mrs. John Zimmerman and Mrs. Otto Kfoss, of Antioch, both of whom are going.

On Tuesday, the day the State officers are to be elected, they will be joined in Rockford by the following Antioch ladies: Mrs. John Horan, Mrs. Walter Hills, Mrs. Paul Chase, Mrs. Evan Kaye, and Mrs. William Ward, all of whom will cast their votes and return to Antioch Tuesday evening.

Ernest Glenn, the former commander of the Antioch Post, will attend as a delegate. Warren Edwards, alternate, will go, and Dr. L. J. Zimmerman goes as delegate of the Forty and Eight division of the Post.

Lake County Woman Wins in Horner Floral Contest

The winners in the Gov. Horner Farm Floral contest have been announced. There were 14 Lake county entries and one winner. This was Mrs. J. E. McIntosh of Barrington, who was a class A winner.

The contest was open to the counties of Boone, DeKalb, DuPage, Kane, Kendall, Lake, McHenry and Will.

Among the judges were Mrs. Rose Amundsen, of Fox Lake, Mrs. Wanda Bennett, of Fox Lake, Mrs. A. A. Bennett, of Fox Lake, Mrs. J. T. Pirie, both of Lake Forest.

ANTIOCH COUNTRY FAIR OPENS THURS., AUG. 25

More Fun, More Exhibits; Expect Greatest Attendance

The secretary and directors of the Antioch country fair and the 4-H Round-up are making their final preparations for the 14th annual recurrence of that event which will start on Thursday of next week. It will be located on the Antioch high school grounds at the intersection of Route 173 with Route 54.

Mrs. R. D. McGuire, secretary of the fair, announces that the outlook is for the biggest, busiest fair in the history of the county. Several of the best bands in this section of the State will furnish the music for the three-day event, and professional entertainers will add their bit to the fun.

For the first time since the first fair was staged fourteen years ago the fair association is incorporated. The State granted a charter this week. This means that the association is not for profit, and all funds that accrue from the fair will be held in a reserve fund that will insure its reputation and success during any lean years that might be experienced.

It is the only fair in Lake county that receives State aid. Over three thousand premium lists have been distributed. Premium costs will run well over $3500. Advance entries indicate that the fair is attracting more interest and thus bids fair to be bigger than any that has preceded it.

Amusements for children will have their proper place in the affair and patrons will find adequate arrangements have been made for refreshments on the grounds.

ZION VOTES HIGH SCHOOL

Work on the New $300,000 Building Will Start Immediately

Zion voted a high school in last Saturday at a special election called to decide whether or not the city should issue bonds to meet the difference between the building cost and the WPA grant for $135,000. The voters favored a bond issue for $165,000. Another proposition voted affirmatively was the purchase of a site for the building.

Zion, a city of 6,500 population, has never had an accredited high school. The high school pupils of Zion and Benton township have gone to Waukegan high school, paying tuitions. The Zion-Benton high school district was voted into existence in 1913, but the first board was not established until 1934, and less than a year ago the maintenance of the district was the subject of a special election which resulted in a favorable vote for the district.

Voliva Opposed the School
Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva marshaled his forces for a fight against the new high school last week. The day prior to the election he flooded the district with handbills attacking the integrity of the proposition and urging his followers to vote against every issue involved in the election. Regardless of his opposition and the opposition of certain individuals who worked actively against the school, the special election showed a majority of 505 votes for the school. Voliva lost his own precinct for the first time, by 58 votes.

The building site, to be purchased at a cost of $6,500, is located two blocks south of Route 173 and four blocks west of Sheridan road; it comprises 4 1/2 acres. The building, as planned, will accommodate 600 pupils.

Black Bass Are Foolish Fish

Last week was a hard week for the black bass. They fell for wriggly worms and pollywogs and came to grief thereby. Seven-year-old Donald Potokar of Cicero, Ill., threw a worm into Loon Lake to have it swallowed by a black bass that tips the scales at 1 1/2 pounds. The fish was pulled by the pole out of Donald's hands, but didn't. Donald yanked the fish to safety.

At Lake Catherine a lucky angler, name unknown, goes Donald three pounds better and takes onto himself a black bass that tips the scales at 4 1/2 pounds. The fisherman used a pollywog pork bait and the fish was lured out of a thick weed bed in the north part of the lake. This was the biggest catch of the week, according to current fish stories, and the lucky angler was seen disposing the beauty at the Lions festival Saturday night.

GIDDY-APP! I

Lions Are Grateful

We extend our heartfelt thanks to the firemen of Antioch and neighboring cities, to the business and professional men and women of Antioch and the Lake region, to the wives of the Lions Club members and to all the individuals who gave so freely of their time and talents to help us make a successful festival.

ST. PETER'S HAS ANNUAL PARTY

Eighty Tables Filled with Bridge Enthusiasts Monday

The annual party of the St. Peter's Catholic church, held last Monday, was a successful affair from every standpoint, drawing a crowd of four hundred people to take part in the games and amusements of the afternoon.

There were eighty tables of bridge and other games and an award for each table. Refreshments were served to each guest on entrance; beautiful pieces of Haeger pottery were given as prizes.

At 4 o'clock the MariAnne shop gave a style show, parading attractive models dressed in smart fall fashions.

Legion Auxiliary Will Honor Past Presidents

The ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary will hold their annual social meeting, honoring past presidents, on Friday, August 26, at the home of Mrs. Chris Mortensen, of Antioch. It is expected that 24 guests will be present.

Antioch News Has Birthday

With this issue of the paper the Antioch News enters its 52nd year. It was founded in 1886 by J. J. Burke, who sold to A. B. Johnson in 1901. Mr. Johnson published the News for a period of twenty years, then sold it to the firm of Horan, Wood and Woodhead. Wood and Woodhead withdrew from the firm after a few years of operation and in 1926 Horan sold the Antioch News to Homer B. Gaston, the present publisher.

The News has grown from its original form of a small, colored handbill to an eight page sheet, ranking as one of the best weeklies in the state.

Since the present owner became publisher of the News in 1926 it has been recognized on several occasions for its merits as a leading weekly. Once it was honored by the Illinois State Press Association and twice by the National Editorial Association for the "General Merit" of the paper. It is one of only four weekly papers in the State of Illinois to receive this recognition.

LIONS' 3-DAY FESTIVAL RATED GRAND SUCCESS

Fifteen Thousand People Visited the Metropolis of Lake Region

The Lions Club festival held in Antioch last week-end brought fifteen thousand people flocking to the festival grounds for the three days of its duration, gave the city widespread advertising of the most beneficial kind and laid the nest-egg for a fund that is the beginning of a program to put Antioch on the map as a winter sports center, with a spot as prominent as the one she occupies during the summer months.

Every feature of the event was a success in its way; the cost of the affair is estimated at about $2500. The Lions club spent over $1,000 for free entertainment features, and supplies and materials used added to the cost. A splendid dance floor was erected and this became the permanent property of the Lions club. There was continuous dancing on this platform. Committee chairmen were instructed to "shoot the works," with the result that Antioch won more than local fame for ability to put on a real festival. The Pan-American roller skating team was well worth the efforts thousands made to see them, the free beef barbecue went over with the bang that was anticipated for it and great interest was centered in the bathing beauty and shorts contests that were features of Saturday and Sunday.

Not the least of the attractions was the rollicking water fight the firemen and the firemen's wives staged in front of the Antioch News office on Friday evening. Water deluged the streets and onlookers went into throes of merriment as the fights waxed hotter and hotter.

In the preliminary fights that were staged Round Lake won from Antioch, Grayslake triumphed over Fox Lake, and in the finals Grayslake took the honors away from Round Lake.

The fight between the girls' teams of Grayslake and Antioch resulted in a victory for Antioch. Antioch girls taking part were Mrs. Elmer Hunter, Mrs. Einar Peterson, Mrs. C. E. Hennings, Mrs. John Gaa, Mrs. John Horan and Mrs. Edgar Simonsen.

Approximately $5,000 was grossed on the festival, so that after the expenses were all deducted there was a creditable profit left to be used for community upbuilding. It was this purpose of the festival, the business men point out, that insured its success from the beginning. There was a splendid attitude of co-operation among the public spirited citizens who realized the far-reaching and the lasting effects of the festival.

The big event closed Sunday night with a gorgeous display of fireworks. The final display, a huge Lions Club emblem in colors on the water tower drew enthusiastic applause from the crowd.

Comments of several business men and women since the festival is to the effect that hundreds of people were brought into Antioch who before hardly knew of its existence. Many of these people, it is pointed out, will probably return as visitors or as permanent residents.

ANTIOCH APPLIES FOR WPA GRANT

Asks for Funds to Be Used in Building City Hall

Antioch has made application for a PWA grant of funds to be expended toward the building of a city hall, according to Mayor George W. Bartlett.

The application was submitted recently to the Chicago office and it is logical to expect that the decision on it will not be long delayed, as the time for the consideration of applications ends October 30, and all applications are being disposed of with dispatch.

The time allowed for applications has been extended one month. It was formerly announced that no applications would be accepted after Sept. 30. If the Antioch grant is made it will then be up to the city to match the amount of the grant with money of their own to be put into the project for which the grant is made.

Mrs. William Cassidy of Ocean Beach, California, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Norman and other friends in Antioch. Mrs. Cassidy is a former resident of Antioch and has many friends here.

Mrs. Katherine Chinn Wins Shorts Contest

Catherine Chinn won the gold loving cup in the shorts contest of the Lions club festival. The contest was held Sunday afternoon and included some twenty pretty girls wearing snappy shorts that made it difficult for the judges to pick the winners. The decision was based on the beauty and fit of the suit worn and the poise and grace with which the contestant wore it.

Mrs. Chinn is the wife of Willard Chinn, of Antioch and Florida. She was sponsored by Chinn's popcorn stand. Second place winner in this contest was Miss Lillian Atwell of Lake Villa, sponsored by Nelson Realty. Miss Trudy Lynn, sponsored by Antioch Milling Co., won third.

The Pullen family held their family reunion at Fox River Park, Sunday, August 14. Those attending from Antioch were Mr. and Mrs. Jake Drom and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ellis and family and Mrs. Floyd Horton.

Business and Laws

The only business that seems to profit by the passage of more laws is the law business. That appears to be the conclusion to which business as a whole is arriving after several experiments in trying to build business by law.

In the last seven years or so there has been something of a fever on, particularly among small town merchants, to erect a sort of legislative wall around their towns, with the idea of keeping all their trade for themselves.

They have been especially hostile toward the direct-selling or house-to-house method of distribution by some of the most reputable manufacturers in America.

But now they are finding that what they overlooked is that this legislation bears most heavily on their own neighbors and fellow townspeople, who engage in direct selling either as a livelihood or to augment an otherwise inadequate income.

They have discovered that these people in 90% of the cases live where they sell, pay taxes there, send their children to school there, buy their cars from local dealers, support local community enterprises. As a consequence, ordinances of the "Green River" type are not being enforced, but still, so long as they are on the books, constitute a hazard to good, decent citizens as much as to the disreputables at whom they were originally aimed.

It's probably natural to wish that one could get all the business in his particular line. But there never was nor never can be a law that will bring this about.

Listen to Hector Lazo, the executive president of a large grocery co-operative: "The cry for laws to do this, laws to do that, is always loudest," he says "from those who want to regulate or restrict the other fellow. . . . We'll have a law to put him out of business, or to hold him down, so we can get all the business ourselves."

It never works. People will forever buy where it is to their own best advantage in value and service.

There is something, though, that will always work in favor of the small-town merchant who really belongs in business. A little newspaper up in Minnesota said it all a few days back. Said the Ortonville (Minn.) Independent:

Mrs. Ray Perry, Zion, spent Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Loftus.

"The greatest requisite in merchandising is inviting the prospective customer to buy. . . . the greatest invitation to buy is letting the customer know what the merchant has to sell, and here again one looks to the method of the large city department stores—newspaper advertising."

The Patent System

All the greatest inventions of our country are protected by patents issued by the United States Government. For 150 years the Government has stood back of inventors and their inventions, in order that the full benefits of their contributions to progress might go to the people of the United States. The patent system began with the beginning of Government. The steam engine, nail machine, cast iron plow and cotton gin were all patented in George Washington's time. The reaper and mowing machine, harvester, sewing machine, rotary printing press, vulcanized rubber and the safety pin came during the next fifty years.

No one has ever offered serious objections to giving monopolistic control to the inventors who have contributed so much to the national progress during the century and a half. Now, most strangely, patents fall under suspicion. Electricity, communication, transportation, photography, flying, radio and the most scientific improvements the world has ever known are to be searched for traces of monopolies.

Senator McAdoo has a bill pending in Congress for the establishment of what he calls a Court of Patents Appeals. This is supposed to be a bill to protect small inventors who now have to defend their claims for patents through the usual courts in the usual way. The United States Patent Office and 8,000 lawyers comprising the patent bar oppose the bill.

"Seasoned with Salt"

It is often the very little things that cause discomfort—such as a pebble or nail in the shoe. And likewise the simplest remedy is often the best for the preservation of health.

Workers in factories perspire in warm weather, and to offset the fatigue of excessive perspiration started taking oatmeal, candy and sugar in water. Finally, some workers discovered that salt helped their physical condition during the summer months.

Now, small salt tablets are available for workers of the drinking fountains of General Motors factories throughout the country. Doctors explain that perspiration often drains the body of too great an amount of salt which must be replaced to renew health and vitality. It is said that the results of using these salt tablets has been remarkable in the prevention of heat prostration and the general weakening effect of summer weather.

MILLBURN

Guests at the Dayton Marrs home from Thursday until Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Marrs and children and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Martin and children of Paris, Ill.

Mrs. Eric Anderson, Bernice and Helen Bauman spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. Calvin Coser, in Chicago.

Miss Ruth Gillings spent the past week at the O. L. Hollenbeck home.

Shirley Mae Hollenbeck spent Thursday night and Friday with her aunt, Miss Shirley Hollenbeck, in Waukegan.

Many from Millburn attended Neighbors' Night at Camp Hyde Park Friday evening.

Delbert Rogan of Libertyville was a caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Webb Saturday.

Richard Martin, who has been attending school at Northwestern University, Evanston, the past two months, returned home Friday.

Thelma Clark returned home Sunday after spending the past week with Mrs. George Edwards in Waukegan.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Elman and daughter, Mrs. John Elman and granddaughter of Gary, Ind., spent Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kaluf.

Mrs. Frank Kennedy of Waukegan spent Tuesday afternoon at the E. A. Martin home.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wetzel and family of Chicago were guests at the Carl Anderson home Sunday.

Ada Hill of Waukegan spent several days with Carroll Truax.

The Unadvertised BUSINESS

Tableware of Wood Was Used by Our Ancestors

The history of tableware begins with the humble dishes of wood that graced the boards of our ancestors. As early as 1620, observes a writer in the Los Angeles Times, when the secretary of the Massachusetts colony was making out a list of things "to send for New England" by the returning ships, there was included various household utensils of wood, platters, trenchers and spoons. During the early period of settlement, when economy was not only a necessity but a practice, wooden dishes, like the cloths of homespun, were in common use for many years. The settlers in the "Old Dominion" brought with them or sent for, much power and fine linen, but the early New Englanders, in most cases came over empty-handed. They had no silverware and very little pottery. Their influence was expended in establishing enduring homes in which plain living and simple tastes were practiced.

From the outset, the Puritans began making use of the materials at hand. Wood was plentiful in the forests surrounding them, and was used not only for the making of household utensils, but for many of their farm implements as well. Woodturning grew into a recognized industry, and many and varied were the items fashioned: Plows, harrows, cartwheels, barrels, sled runners, hay forks and buckets for the out-of-doors; bread bowls, porringers, trays, dishes, butter molds, knife boxes, spoon racks, plates and platters for household use.

English Traders' Taxes

Once Paid With Pepper

English traders once were required to pay their taxes to the city in pepper. Certain landlords demanded one pound of pepper as rent from their tenants. One of the most famous English guilds was that of the pepperers, established in the Twelfth century.

Records go back even further as we find that the Goths demanded 3,000 pounds of pepper as part of the ransom of Rome, after its capture in the Fifth century, notes a writer in the Kansas City Star.

Most black and white pepper comes from the Dutch East Indies and from India. The pepper berries are gathered when they begin to turn red and are dried in the sun or near a slow fire. The whole berries are ground to produce the spice known as black pepper, while the other shells are removed in the preparation of the white spice.

Red peppers, of which there are a number of varieties, such as cayenne, tabasco and paprika, are made from the powdered ripe pods of the capsicum plant, which differ greatly in pungency. Of these paprika, which generally comes from Hungary and Spain, is particularly mild, the first having the more distinctive flavor. Powdered pepper generally is used in this country.

Agricultural Development

From prehistoric times rudiments of the science of agriculture—of cultivating the soil for the purpose of obtaining food—have been known to man. In ancient Egyptian tombs sealed shut 6,000 years ago have been found grains of a cultivated type of wheat; upon the walls of these tombs are portrayed date trees and the Egyptian farmer sowing with crude plow and harrow. Early Chinese history indicates an advanced agricultural system, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune. The Greeks used fertilizers on their lands and knew the value of allowing a field to lie fallow. The early Roman was adept at two arts—war and farming. The first American colonists learned agricultural methods adapted to the new world from the Indians, first farmers of America. Throughout the history of colonization and expansion westward, behind the scouts and restless pioneers always have come the hordes of land-eager settlers, ready to convert the wilderness into farmland.

Battleship Drenched With Blood

The deck of the Lawrence, Oliver H. Perry's ship in the battle of Lake Erie, was so bloody that sand had to be sprinkled on the wood so the fighters still alive could stand. Eighty-three men on the ship fell from the bullet fire of the British vessels. Surrounded by six enemy ships, the Lawrence was battered until it tipped to one side. Her rigging and spars were shattered and her sails were down. When it looked as though Perry must surrender, he and his small brother and four seamen dropped into a rowboat and started under cover of gunsmoke for the Niagara. Before they reached the other ship, the British spotted the little boat and began pounding it with bullets. None of the men was hit, but one bullet went through the side of the rowboat, causing a leak. To save the boat from filling with water and sinking Perry took off his coat and stuffed it into the hole. The men reached the Niagara safely.

Size of Rain Drops

Drops of water formed in the atmosphere by condensation of aqueous vapor and falling rapidly by virtue of their weight are known as rain. Smaller, finer particles, falling more slowly, are known as mist or fog. Drops of rain one-fourth to three-tenths of an inch in diameter have been measured. The smallest drops of rain measure one-twentieth of an inch in diameter.

Chicago Woman Entertains Friends in Antioch

Miss Ada G. Ball, of Chicago, was hostess at a dinner party last Tuesday night at the Ball hotel in Antioch. The honor guest was Lee Hinterlong, who is a buyer for the Boston store in Chicago. Guests at the party, aside from Mr. Hinterlong, were Mrs. Hinterlong and their daughter, Miss "Tootie" Hinterlong, who insists that she prefers her nickname to any other; Abe Steinman, Miss Mae McKenna, all of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Ball, of Oak Park, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Ball, of Antioch.

The occasion of the party was Mr. Hinterlong's birthday. He has been associated in business with Miss Ball, the hostess, for several years, since Miss Ball is herself a buyer for the Boston store. She has been with the store for twenty years and has held the position of foreign buyer for a long time. She is a pretty, petite woman who radiates charm and personality and whose invariable kindness and interest in the people with whom she comes in contact has made her one of the most popular figures in the employ of the big firm with which she has been so long associated.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Soul" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 14.
The Golden Text was, "Hear me speedily, O Lord... cause me to hear thy loving kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust: cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee" (Psalms 143, 7, 8).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will bless the Lord at all times; his praise shall continually be in my mouth. My soul shall make her boast in the Lord: the humble shall hear thereof, and be glad. O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together" (Psalms 34: 1-3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul, or Spirit, is God, unchangeable and eternal; and man coexists with and reflects Soul God, for man is God's image" (p. 120).

A very gratifying congregation greeted the pastor last Sunday at the first service after a very enjoyable vacation in the lake country of northern Wisconsin. To draw one's self away from the noise and turmoil of the multitude, to meet God's creatures in their native haunts, and to worship in the solitude of the forest or beside the restless waters is a privilege for which one should be grateful. To be home again breaking the Bread of Life, ministering to human needs, facing immeasurable opportunities, and grappling with tasks of super-human proportions is a blessing from the hand of God.

It is indeed encouraging to know how well all phases of the church work has prospered thus far during the summer; and that in spite of hot weather, seasonable employment, vacations, and innumerable other attractions which tend to divert the minds of the people. It is evident that, in some at least, the sense of real value still prevails.

The pastor wishes to acknowledge the very efficient manner in which Brothers Pollock and Pierstorff in the pulpit, Brother Hans Von Holvade at the organ, and the choir maintained the services during his absence. Thank you, one and all.

LIBRARY TO MOVE TO MAIN STREET

At a meeting of the Antioch Township Library board to be held tonight the question of a new site for the library will be discussed. The board feels that the library should be moved to Main street and three locations are under consideration. Each is a second floor location.

It is planned to move the library to a Main street site before October, according to Dr. L. John Zimmerman, of the library board.

Horton Family Holds Their Fifth Reunion

The fifth annual reunion of the Horton family was held at Grayslake last Sunday, with sixty-five members of the family in attendance. The oldest Horton in attendance was Henry Horton, who is 87 years of age. The youngest was Dorene Craft, 3 months old.

Antioch people present were Mr. and Mrs. Murray Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Horton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Risch, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horton, Jr., and Mr. Joseph Horton, Sr., and grandson, Edward Jansen.

Fewer Building Permits Issued in Lake County

July of 1937 was a busier month in the building line than was the same month of 1938, according to a survey by the Greenbaum Investment Company.
Lake Forest, Barrington and Libertyville were the only Lake county municipalities showing an increase, with Lake Forest leading. The total building permits of 1937 showed an estimated value of $300,655. The value in 1938 is $232,274.

TO THE VILLAGE BOARD

On behalf of all the lay fever sufferers in this community I wish to express sincere thanks to your committee for taking care of noxious weeds growing on the vacant lots of the village. It is undoubtedly an oversight on the part of the property owners in neglecting to destroy the various plants such as goldenrod and ragweed which cause so much suffering to lay fever victims at this particular season.

A GRATEFUL SUBSCRIBER.

Illinois Oil Output exceeds 1937.
With three new oil fields discovered in July, and with the present flow of oil running more than a million barrels a month, production of petroleum in Illinois this year will probably be twice that of 1937, according to the latest estimate of the State Geological Survey. A bulletin giving the status of the new oil fields up to the end of last year, and details of the discovery well in each field, has just been published by the Geological Survey.

DINNER FOLLOWS DOUBLE WEDDING

Forty Guests Entertained at Saturday Night Party

At's Chateau was the scene of a merry wedding party last Saturday night when two bridal couples from Chicago and forty of their friends gathered around the dinner table in the cosy new dining room recently added to the Chateau.

Charles Weis, brother of Mrs. Al Komper, Chateau hostess, and wife of the proprietor, was one of the bridegrooms, and his bride was the former Miss Esther Wiebold, of Chicago. The other bride and groom were Arch Ryerson and Miss Jean Wiebold, also of Chicago. The two brides were sisters; the two grooms close friends.

The weddings took place at Highland Lake, with the Rev. Louis Goebel officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weis attended the first couple to be married; the Charles Weis, then Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weis attended their friends, whose ceremony followed their own. The entire party then went to At's Chateau, where preparations had been made for the wedding dinner.

After the dinner the two couples slipped away from their friends and left together for a two week's honeymoon. No one knows their destination. After the honeymoon both couples will make their homes in Chicago.

Last Week-end Ran Short of Accidents

Last week-end was free of any serious motor accidents in Lake county, although the heat was intense and thousands of motorists sought the Lake region for relief from the heat. Three drivers were arrested in the county for drunken driving and three others sustained minor injuries.

One enterprising motorist, a bit the worse for drink, was stopped on one of the highways when his car was seen zigzagging across the road, and affably offered to pay the policemen off with a couple of dollars. They declined his munificence and took him into the station, where he was held for a justice hearing on a charge of drunkenness.

Illinois Yields 3,000 Carloads Peaches

The Illinois peach crop is beginning to move to market. Growers predict a yield of about 2,500,000 bushels, or 3,000 carloads. Early frosts cleared the weaker blossoms from the trees, consequently the quality of this season's fruit is described as exceptionally fine.

TWO LIVES LOST IN LAKES

There were two drownings near Wauconda last Sunday, bringing the total Lake fatalities to 13 for the summer months.

Mary Anne Darby, a ten-year-old pupil at the St. Joseph School for handicapped children, was one of the victims. She wandered away from a group of companions and was not missed for a while. After dinner a search revealed her body in an artificial pool where she had apparently sought relief from the heat.

John Kieta, 23, a Chicagoan, went down in Bangs Lake, after jumping into the water from a boat for a swim. He came up once and called for help. His companion on the boat, Lloyd Schaffhausen, dived after him and was himself overcome in a struggle to save his friend. He was taken from the water and revived, but Kieta's body was not recovered until later in the day and the body was taken to Chicago for funeral services.

Sense of Sight, Taste, Smell

The sense of sight as well as the sense of smell often assists the sense of taste. Many wine tasters, says Collier's Weekly, when blindfolded, sometimes have difficulty in correctly naming wines that, produced from various soils, have correspondingly varied shades as well as flavors.

No-Latitude, No-Longitude Point

The no-latitude, no-longitude point on the earth is the point where the prime meridian of Greenwich crosses the equator. This is in Gulf of Guinea off the western coast of Africa and many miles from land. The British Gold Coast colony is the closest land, and its capital, Accra, in 5 degrees, 31 minutes north and 0 degrees, 12 minutes west, is the nearest town.

McMillen Will Meet the Touted Van Schacht

Friedrick Von Schacht, 6 foot 6 inch giant heavyweight wrestling champion of Germany, will get the chance he has been waiting for for more than six months Friday night, August 19, when he steps into the ring to wrestle Jim McMillen, local star and one of the greatest in the sport, in the main event of the all-star card at Peg's Grayslake Arena, the Lake county center of sporting activities.

Some six months ago Von Schacht met McMillen before a capacity crowd in Chicago and after forty minutes of grappling the referee disqualified the giant German for becoming too vicious and awarded the match to McMillen. Three weeks later, the pair met in a return encounter and Von Schacht won the match and the right to face Bronko Nagurski for the world's championship in the Chicago coliseum. Von Schacht pinned the champion but the referee preferred to look the other way and awarded Bronko the match when Von Schacht tumbled out of the ring. Since that time the German strongman has been gunning for another McMillen bout to get in line for the champion whom he is certain he can beat.

There will be some good preliminaries and in the semi-windup the famous Lord Patrick Lansdowne, Suffolk, England's bid to title honors, will enter the ring accompanied by his two valets, Jeeves and Twiddle, to wrestle Al Williams, Fox Lake tutored tough boy.

Learning to Play Organ

People of ordinary ability may study the organ for years before they learn to play even moderately difficult passages. They must learn to do many things at the same time. Their two hands must play on four different keyboards, and manage "stops"; their feet beat out bass parts on a fifth, or pedal, keyboard, and strike other controls as well.

Testing the Violin

Typical experiments on the violin body include testing the tone and loudness of the instrument with a paper clip on the bridge, with the "f" holes of the air chamber closed, or with carbon dioxide replacing the air inside.

Shave Hindu Boy's Head

Between the ages of nine and twelve the orthodox Hindu boy has his head shaved, leaving a small strand of hair on top. He is then invested with the sacred thread and thus formally admitted into the practice of Hinduism.

KENOSHA COUNTY FAIR IS NOW ON

Dairy Queen to Be Chosen Tomorrow and Crowned at "Butter Ball"

The Kenosha County Fair got under way at Wilmot yesterday, opening with a colorful parade and exhibits that rival anything of previous years for interest and magnitude.

WLS radio headlines are making their appearance this afternoon and tonight as one of the principal features of the fair. At 8 o'clock this evening there will be the horse show, one of the most popular events of the week.

Tomorrow will feature the horse-pulling contest, which is a revival of an old-fashioned entertainment favorite. The style show is offered tomorrow, too, and the dairy queen will be chosen from a number of entries, and crowned at the "Butter Ball" in the evening at the high school gymnasium.

Added Many Titles

When Edmund Roberts, American diplomat, tried to negotiate a treaty with Coochin China in 1832, he was unable to impress the Oriental authorities with his importance, notes a writer in Collier's Weekly, until he added to his name on the letter of introduction, by way of titles, the names of cities, lakes, rivers, mountains and counties in his native state of New Hampshire. Then the treaty was signed.

800 Kinds of Roses

There are 800 variations of roses in the city of Montevideo, Uruguay, by the way, means "River of Birds." And "Banda Oriental," the pet name for Paraguay, simply means "East Bank," and applies to the shore of the La Plata river.

How Leaves Generate Heat

In hot, dry climates the friction of the leaves of trees rubbing against one another in a strong wind has generated sufficient heat, it is believed by some scientists, says Collier's Weekly, to have caused forest fires.

New Sanatorium Will Care for All Tuberculosis Cases

There is no known method of immunizing a person against tuberculosis. All persons who are infected do not develop the disease, but some of the infected persons do and there is no way to tell which infected people are going to develop tuberculosis. Therefore, the best plan of avoiding tuberculosis is to avoid infection with the germs that cause it.

The disease is contagious, or infectious, and therefore is preventable as are all contagious diseases. There is a specific test, namely, the simple and harmless tuberculin skin test which will detect infection in an individual. The X-Ray of the lungs of the individual who has a positive reaction to the skin test will show the beginning disease years before symptoms appear.

Lake County with its tuberculosis control as planned today, from the medical point of view, includes three main features. First the earlier diagnosis of new cases of tuberculosis is provided in the program of the Lake County Tuberculosis Association. Second, provision for sanatorium care for all active cases is rapidly reaching completion through the earnest efforts of the Lake County Sanatorium Board in building the new Sanatorium. The medical and nursing personnel of the Sanatorium is under the direction of Dr. Charles K. Petter. Third, nursing visits into the homes of discharged patients from the Sanatorium, follow-up of all contacts and the constant hunting for new cases of tuberculosis through the field work of Miss White and the chest clinics sponsored by the Lake County Tuberculosis Association.

In January of this year the Association began holding one clinic every week with Dr. Petter as clinician instead of the usual clinic every two weeks. Three months ago Dr. Petter and Miss White decided it was necessary to hold, temporarily, two clinics a week, one to take care of the overflow from the Wednesday clinic. From now on these clinics will be held regularly on Wednesday and Friday morning at St. Theresa hospital from 8:30 to 11 A. M.

Pedestrians Lead Auto Fatalities Illinois auto fatalities involving pedestrians outnumber other kinds of auto deaths almost two to one, according to figures lately released by the State Division of Highways. During the first six months of this year, pedestrian accidents caused 394 deaths, while 208 persons die in vehicular collisions. The respective figures for the same period last year were 528 and 296. Excessive speed and drinking drivers are listed as the two leading causes of accidents.

Lesson for August 21

HANNAH: GODLY MOTHERHOOD

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 1:10-18; 2:1-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—Her children arise up, and call her blessed. Proverbs 31:28.

"Godly Motherhood" — All the power and grace of the infinite God working in and through the most tender and at the same time most potent human relationship—motherhood! There indeed is the solution of many of our national and social problems. For we agree with the poet that man, who regards himself as being mighty, ruling over land and sea, must defer to a mightier power.

"For the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world."
Hannah was the mother of Samuel, who became one of Israel's outstanding leaders—a priest, a prophet, and "the maker of kings." God needed a great man, so He chose for him a great mother.

Our study for today will be topical rather than textual and extended to related portions in chapters 1 and 2.

We consider Hannah as a mother who was spiritual and sacrificial, but at the same time practical in her daily life and service.

I. Spiritual.

Many are the tributes offered to mothers, but none has deeper significance than the testimony of a boy or girl that their mother has led them both by precept and example to have faith in God. Though other advantages may be beyond the reach even of the most self-denying mother, this most important of all benefits she may bring her children, but only if she herself is an earnest and faithful follower of the Lord.

1. Hannah trusted God in her hour of trial and sorrow (1:10). Although her husband was a man of good qualities, he had followed the custom of his times and taken a second wife. Hannah, childless in the presence of Peninnah and her children, was in deep sorrow. But she knew where to take her burdens; she brought them to the Lord in prayer.

2. She prayed—fervently and effectually (1:17, 18, compare James 5:16b). Mother's prayers have followed many a wayward boy and girl and brought them back to God. When every other influence for good had been swept aside, they have been unable to forget mother's prayers. One wonders what will happen to boys and girls who go out to face a wicked and bewildering world, with the memory of a prayerless, worldly mother to blight rather than to bless them.

3. She recognized children as a gift of God (1:11). And surely they are. Christian men and women should protest by both word and deed against the vicious modern theory that children are a sort of biological accident to be avoided.

II. Sacrificial.
The most precious possession a woman can have is a child of her own. It was, then, the deepest and finest sacrifice of a noble mother-heart when she

1. Dedicated her boy to God, even before his birth (1:11). Yet this act so fine and commendable was in reality only an intelligent recognition of the fact that children are a gift of God. Your children and mine belong to God. Let us not stand in His way (or their way) as He graciously leads them out into service for Him.

2. She kept her promise (1:24-28). Many parents have solemnly dedicated their children to God before their birth, and then later the prospect of separation from them has been too much for the parents, and the promise to God has been thrust aside. The writer has on many occasions seen young men and women weep with broken-hearted dismay because a mother or father has forbidden them to go to China, Africa, or elsewhere at God's call. Mother, have you kept your promise to God regarding your boy, your girl?

III. Practical.
Hannah not only promised her boy to God; she made the completion of that promise certain.

1. By guiding her boy in the right way (1:24). As a matter of fact, she went with him to the temple. A mother who "seeds" her boy to Sunday school or church will never help him like the mother of whom it may be said "she brought him unto the house of the Lord."

2. By providing for her boy (2:18, 19). There is no more tender and meaningful story in all literature than that of Hannah bringing her boy his "little coat." It is still true that the best "support" a missionary of the Cross can have is a home that "stands by."

The story is told of a missionary candidate who had no "board" back of her but the "washboard" of a godly mother, and who made a valiant and useful servant in the foreign field. Such an arrangement may not be the most desirable and it really should not be necessary if God's people would give, but it has its glorious advantages.

Such a mother as Hannah would have such a son as Samuel of whom it is said that he "was in favour both with the Lord, and also with men" (2:26).

Woolen Garments Traced to Old Testament Times

As far back as we have a written record in the history of man, the production and uses of wool and its importance in the lives of man form a very interesting study. In view of the large flocks of sheep mentioned in the days of Jacob, of Old Testament fame, I think we are justified in assuming that Joseph's coat of many colors, the envy of his brothers, was made of woolen cloth, states a writer in the Missouri Farmer. I can imagine many soft, clinging, finely woven dresses in the wardrobe of the queen of Sheba when she made her famous visit to the home of Solomon. Beneath the armor of the legions of Caesar were heavy woolen garments to protect them from the cold during their winter campaigns in the North.

We like to think that the coat whose ownership was decided by the casting of lots on Calvary was of heavy woolen cloth, as it was worn by our Lord to protect Him from cold and rain.

The tents of the nomads of Asia are of wool, so tightly woven that they shed water. The Blue and Gray wool uniforms of the Civil War veterans, the blue wool clothing worn during the Spanish-American war days, the khaki uniforms of the World War soldiers, and the patterns of weave and tailoring worn by our women and girls, these are but few of the many uses of wool.

Indians Grew Pumpkins

Their Origin Is Obscure

The pumpkin has not been modified very much by cultivation. As a filling for pies it has few rivals and no superiors. Pumpkins are supposedly natives of tropical America, but their origin is obscure as the first white settlers found the Indians growing them as a cultivated crop. The native heath of none of the pumpkins is definitely known, and the same is true of the squashes. It is certain that some are American; others are thought to be Asian, states a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

The muskmelon is native to South Asia and tropical Africa, the cucumber being from the same part of Asia. It has almost as many curious forms as the squash. The orange melon and the snake melon are some of these. The latter must not be confused with the snake gourd, quite a different fruit. The melon is edible and often made into preserves. The watermelon is native to tropical and South Africa, growing from two to six inches in diameter, sometimes sweet, sometimes bitter. It is in our own country that its flavor, texture and size have been improved. Nowhere else have melons been grown to more than 100 pounds weight.

Horseshoe and Good Luck

According to Brewer's Dictionary of Phrase and Fable the legend that a horseshoe brings good luck is supposed to have originated with St. Dunstan, who was noted for his skill in shoeing horses. One day Satan himself is said to have appeared and demanded that his "single hoof" should be shod. St. Dunstan, recognizing his customer, tied him right to the wall and proceeded to do as he was bid, but purposely inflicted so much pain that his Satanic Majesty begged for mercy. Thereupon St. Dunstan released his captive after having extracted from him a promise that he would never enter a place where a horseshoe was displayed. Thus reads the legend. And so, for many centuries, observes a writer in the New York Herald Tribune, the horseshoe has been looked upon as a charm against evil and a bringer of good fortune. At one time it was affixed to the front door of the house as a protection against witches. Lord Nelson caused one to be nailed to the mast of his flagship, the Victory, and we still find this emblem of good luck installed in many homes.

"Roll the Cotton Down"

The chantey, "Roll the Cotton Down," of negro origin, was originally sung by those loading cotton aboard the river boats for shipment down the river. Often tired of servitude, the negro made his escape from plantations by hiding aboard ships engaged in the cotton trade. Forced from his hiding place by hunger and worry, he was put to work. He sang the songs of his plantation to the rhythm of his work, the songs were quickly picked up by the chanteymen and later, in varying versions, sung by the crews.

The French Poodle

Originated sometime in the Fifteenth century, the French poodle dog has been used as a hunting dog for centuries and can not be surpassed as a retriever. They are very intelligent and possess an uncanny ability to make themselves understood. They are very gentle, affectionate, splendid watchdogs and good companions for the children.

Bald Mountains Never Explained

Numerous "balds"—defoliated mountain tops in North Carolina—puzzle ecologists. Although nearby higher peaks are covered with dense forests of fir and spruce, these balds have refused to yield timber within the memory of the oldest Indian records. Nothing in soil or climate has been found to explain the phenomenon.

BALLROOM HABITS

"You ought to be a dancing instructor."
"Yes?" Thanks for the compliment."
"Yes, indeed. You are always inventing new steps which have never been heard of."

NOT IN ALPHABET

Teacher—So you don't know which letter comes next to H?
Bobby—No'm.
Teacher—What have I on each side of my nose?
Bobby—Looks like powder, ma'am, from here.

COUNTING TIME

Wife—I'll be ready in one second.
Hubby—All right; I'll be back in half an hour.

USES SIGN LANGUAGE

"You say you found a very pleasant but effective way of keeping your pretty deaf and dumb girl from talking?"
"Yes, just held her hands."

HEAD OF THE FAMILY

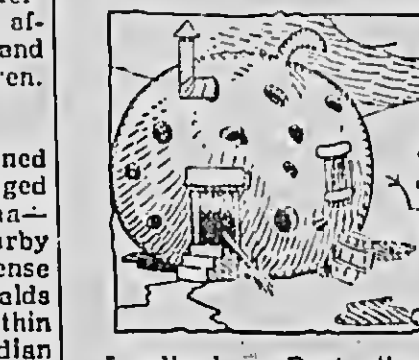

Mother—Did John like that book I gave him on his birthday?
Daughter—He hasn't read it. I haven't finished it myself yet.

SURE HE WILL

Aunt—Come over tomorrow, Jack, we're going to have a pretty girl for dinner.
Jack—A chicken dinner? Well, I should say I will. How'll she be dressed?

JUST LIKE PEOPLE

Landlord—Dret those apple worms, they've eaten half my house and skipped their rent.

FARM TOPICS

INDIAN RUNNER IS GOOD LAYING DUCK

Ability May Exceed Any of the Breeds of Hens.

By a Poultry Authority in the Rural New Yorker—W. H. Service.

The outstanding characteristic of Indian Runner ducks, as compared with other varieties, is their superiority as egg producers. Good strains may equal or exceed any of the breeds of hens in this respect. They are lighter in weight than the "meat" breeds of ducks and give place to the Pekins on duck farms where large numbers are annually produced for the markets.

The standard weight of the Indian Runner duck is 4½ pounds; of the duck a half pound less. They lay a white egg, larger than the hen egg, and make fair broilers weighing from 2½ to 3 pounds at six weeks of age. They are not suited to the production of large green ducks, but rather to the production of ducklings of broiler size. They are active, hardy and non-sitters. In other countries, where they have been longer bred for egg production, they are said to show an average of 200 eggs or more per year.

Ducks require more food for growth and egg production than hens, more floor space and more labor in caring for and shipping the eggs. As an offset, they are less susceptible to disease.

Some years ago, the Indian Runner duck was exploited as a competitor of the hen as an egg producer and achieved a popularity upon general or poultry farms that it does not seem to have held, some part of the loss in this being doubtless due to the greater feed consumption of the duck coupled with the more limited year-around demand for duck eggs. While duck eggs are larger than those of the hen and should command higher prices, they are not given their due in this respect during the greater part of the marketing season.

Water Held by Corn Land

Soils used for producing a three-year rotation of corn, oats and red clover hold 15,000 more gallons of water per acre than if the same soils are used to produce corn continuously without any fertilizer. It is reported by the South Dakota experiment station. If lime, manure and phosphate are used with the crop rotation, the soil will hold 40,500 more gallons of water per acre than when corn is grown continuously.

The number of women who make their living on farms, according to the last agricultural census, was 909,939.

Alfalfa hay that is green and leafy is a big help in the ration of hens that are producing eggs for hatching purposes.

Peanut growing as an industry is far more important than generally supposed, outranking silver mining when unsubsidized by the government.

"Hull's Victory" Song

The song, "Hull's Victory," was inspired by the famous sea battle of 1812 off the coast of New Jersey, when Hull, as commander of the Constitution, with soldiers recruited from Annapolis, defeated and captured the British frigate Guerrier. New England sailors often sang this song and the tune and dance by the same name have been used in Maine and other sections in the eastern part of the country for at least 80 years.

Kill 15,000 Crows With One Charge of Dynamite

Burley, Idaho.—It took only one shot to bag approximately 15,000 crows on an island in Snake river. The composite bullet, consisting of 199 sticks of dynamite in tin cans filled with buckshot, was touched off, all at once, by an electric timing device. The island rocked, and the crows dropped in droves. The idea and the "marksmanship" record belong to the state game department.

Squid Has No Backbone

Of all animals which do not have backbones, the squid grows to be the largest size. Counting the outstretched tentacles, squids sometimes reach a length of 50 feet or a little more. Some kinds, however, are only six or eight feet long. Squids are common in the Atlantic ocean, and from time to time are cast ashore along the eastern coast of North America. The inky fluid which they can shoot forth is used in making sepia paint, a rich brown pigment for artists.

Cave of Jewels Found

Paris.—A modern "Aladdin's cave" is reported by the Paris press to have been found near Barcelona, Spain. It contained jewels and treasures valued at nearly $4,500,000.

To Test Dairy Herds

London.—A national campaign to eliminate tubercular cattle from British dairy herds will begin on January 1.

FLOWERS ARE WORN IN UNUSUAL WAYS

Add Interest to Fashion Picture for Summer.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It is not only that flower-trimmed hats add beauty and interest to the fashion picture this season, and that the corsage is again in favor and that something seems lacking when a boutonniere fails to adorn the lapel of the smart tailored suit, but the exciting part that has to do with the present vogue for flowers is the dramatic and novel ways in which they are worn.

Flowers posed gaily on the straps of your slippers or the toe of your pumps, flowers encircling your waist, a whole festoon of flowers about your shoulders in picturesque lei fashion with bracelet to match, and many more lovely unique ways of wearing flowers might be cited.

It's new to wear a huge flower in your hair so posed you think it to be a hat of itself—gives an exotic touch to the formal party costume. Such unusual flowers are being worn which add yet more glamor. Picture the exquisite charm of white lilies in the hair with lilacs at your waist. You'll be the belle of the party if you wear white lilies.

Yellow cowslips with fresh green leaves, try them with your wheat-colored tulle. As to lilies of the valley you wear entire bouquets formed of them with of course a boutonniere or corsage to match—perfectly stunning with your new black sheer.

There's more to tell about flowers than space permits but as a concluding thought to hold in mind we are suggesting the lovely full-skirted frothy sheer gowns that have little bouquets scattered here and there over the skirt with matching posies garniture about off-shoulder decollete necklines and at slim and svelte waistlines making as pretty a picture as ever fashion gave us.

KERCHIEF SQUARES

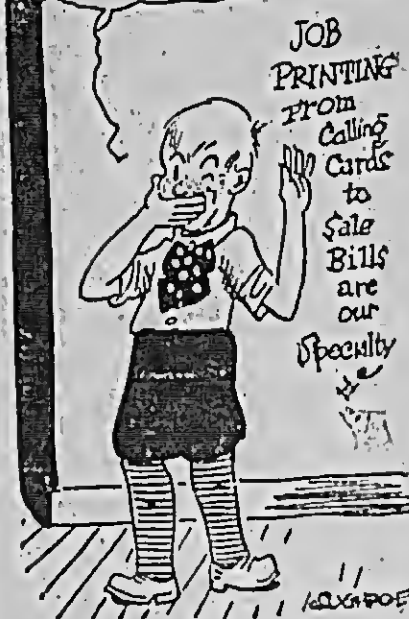

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Here are two of the latest arrivals in ultra modish kerchief squares, to add to your collection of chic summer head-coverings—a fashion that is contributing a picturesque note to the summer style scene. As the illustration shows, a kerchief-square head-covering can be very formal or very casual and nonchalant, according to occasion. To enclose flowers and collure for lovely-lady formal wear, Burnel creates an enormous flowing hanky square of chiffon, which, worn as the exotic young woman above in the picture is wearing, insures against unexpected wind flurries on sojourn nights. The low-cut gown of pastel net is in keeping with romance in the air. A brooch and bracelet of rhinestones by Albertine tunes to this formal loveliness. And now come hanky ensembles! And on intriguing twosome they make as Burnel designs them, devising a tiny replica hanky to be tucked into a white shirtwaist pocket (as pictured) so as to keep company with the vari-colored kerchief square designed in stripes and dots, worn peasant fashion over the head.

Her Gown of Airy-Fairy Thin Weave

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

NOW that the season has come to exchange lover's knots for marital ties, the fancy of brides-to-be turns happily to a glamorous picture of billowy tulle and lovely flowers and wedding array for herself and her attendants that shall be fashioned of fabrics which needs must tune to the romance and beauty of the occasion.

A highly important style message for brides-prospective is the wide use being made this season of airy-fairy diaphanous silk sheers for the making of the wedding gown as well as for the bridesmaid frocks and the dresses of the little flower girls. There is an ethereal elusive beauty about the wedding scene that is carried out in terms of these lovely silk transparencies such as silk marquisette, filmy-as-cobweb nets, tulle and chiffons and silk organzas and mousseline de soies that blend ideally into the setting of a perfect day in June or in later summertime.

The bride in the illustration makes an entrancing picture in her gown of lovely summery silk marquisette. Its youthful princess lines, its enhancement of decorative lace appliques and its heart-shaped décolletage are in the quintessence of the "Gone With the Wind" tradition. The train is a spectacular part of the dress that reveals through a full length silk filmy net veil with lace edging to match the gown. The bride carries a seed pearl prayer book.

Silk sheers are also favored for attendant frocks as they are smart for many summer evenings as well as the wedding itself.

Even the little flowergirl's dress, also of silk sheer, is selected so that it can be worn later on for birthday or dancing school parties. The cunning child pictured in the inset is clad in peach silk marquisette, the surplice front of which presents a new line for children's frocks that is both charming and youthful. This forms a ruffle that is tied in at the high waistline with a mauve velvet ribbon matching the ribbon on the puffed sleeves.

Traditional white satin is seen in many new versions. In Paris, Molyneux shows a sensational wedding gown in broche silk satin with a lily design. It is of Second Empire crinoline silhouette with posies and sprays of lily-of-the-valley held in the period-draped skirt. In America, many women are choosing the long, fitted bodice for their wedding dress as well as for their street, spectator sports and evening dresses. One smart version in white duchess silk satin features this moyen age waistline with a full gathered skirt and train. Many brides prefer a gown on princess lines for its slim, reed-like grace. In silk marquisette as pictured it is really fit for a princess.

Silk net wedding veils are equally smart in the long or hip length versions. Often they have caps to match the dress or the bridal corsage. A simple and out of the ordinary cap worn by a recent bride had a peaked crown, the entire headpiece made of closely allover shirred tulle same as the veil. A charming suggestion for the bridesmaids is that of cunning little boleros fashioned entirely of flat sewed flowers. These may either match the color of the silk organza gowns they top or they may be in contrasting color. Very effective also is the bolero that is made of pastel colored lace worn with the gown of silk marquisette in matching or contrasting color.

Karakul Lambs Black at Birth; Some Brown, White

Most Karakul lambs are coal black at birth. Still, it is not unusual for them to be brown, white or spotted. Regardless of the color the hair always is curly when the lamb comes into the world. The same lack of color uniformity also prevails in the matured herd, writes Addis Kelley in the Los Angeles Times.

The Karakul is the only sheep that produces four different types of fur: the broadtail, Persian lamb, Karakul and Astrakhan. In addition to the sale of the fur product, which requires no feed, always taken from the nursing young, the Karakul produces ten or more pounds of "hair" each year for each matured animal.

The "hair" is clipped each spring. It is used in making Bokhara, Afghan, Persian and other oriental rugs. Fabric is also made from the "hair." Manufacturers of the United States make Indian rugs and blankets. Great volumes of yarn are spun annually for domestic use in repairing and edging oriental products.

Karakuls are active, alert and particularly adapted to cleaning up noxious weeds and brush. They are the hardest variety of sheep in the world. In fact they average double the age of other breeds.

Street Trading Custom in Early N. Y. Market

The New York Curb exchange, second largest securities market in the United States, acquired its name from the fact that it originated as an outdoor security market. Brokers stood in the streets and on the curbs in the New York financial district while trading in stocks and bonds, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune.

The "curb" market began functioning before the Civil war. It was without formal organization in the early days. Trading usually started about 8 o'clock in the morning and continued until there was no more business. After dark brokers frequently continued business in hotel lobbies.

One of the favorite evening meeting places for "curb" brokers was the old Fifth Avenue hotel at Twenty-third street. The corridors of the hotel eventually became known as "Gallagher's Exchange," and trading often continued far into the night.

Most of the business, however, was conducted outdoors. The brokers were driven from their favorite meeting places several times by increasing traffic in the financial district. The market did not move indoors until 1921, although by 1911 a definite administrative organization was functioning.

Birth Stones

The list of birthstones representing each month of the year and their meanings, originally selected by the late Dr. George F. Kunz, president of Tiffany and Company, listing ancient, first, and modern, second, follows: January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, bloodstone; April, sapphire, diamond; May, agate, emerald; June, emerald, agate; July, amethyst, August, carnelian, topaz; September, chrysolite, beryl; October, aquamarine, pearl; November, topaz, opal; December, ruby, bloodstone. The American National Retail Jewelers' association at its convention in Kansas City in 1912 adopted a list that differs from the Tiffany modern list, in that it carries for January, garnet; March, aquamarine; June, pearl; August, sardonyx; September, sapphire; October, opal, and December, turquoise. The garnet is credited with endowing the wearer with constancy and fidelity; bloodstone, courage and truthfulness; diamond, innocence; emerald, high life; ruby, a contented mind; long life; sardonyx, felicity; sapphire, wisdom; opal, hope; topaz, fidelity; turquoise, prosperity and success.

Jeweled Eggs at Easter

According to Herbert P. Whitlock, curator of gems of the American Museum of Natural History, the custom of exchanging eggs at Easter was a very old one in imperial Russia. According to an ancient legend, Mary Magdalene gave the Roman emperor, Tiberius, a hen's egg dyed red as a symbol of the risen Christ. Up to the close of the World war, the great mass of the Russian people yearly gave one another hen's eggs dyed red. Among the wealthier class, eggs carved from the variously colored Russian decorative stones were used. The emperor, Alexander III, inaugurated the custom of presenting to the empress at every Easter-tide a specially elaborate and costly egg designed by the court jeweler.

Snake Angling New Sport for Venturesome Texans

Matador, Texas. — Cowboys and town dwellers alike are getting new thrills from a dangerous new sport of the rocky ranch country—snake angling.

The idea circulated northward from the Rio Grande ranchers, past Breckenridge, in central west Texas, where a "snake hunt" is an annual outing for many citizens. The rugged brush country of the "Cap Rock" plateau of the high plains furnishes a sport usually not found in snake hunting.

Rattlesnakes are the prey and the "rods" are four-foot lengths of pipe encircling a stout wire that is fashioned into a loop at the bottom end. The "angler" carries the rod, and when he meets a rattler, the wire loop is slipped over the snake's head. A quick jerk on the other end of the wire, and the rattler is killed—either decapitated or with a broken back.

A catch of 100 is not unusual for a single all-day party.

Street Trading Custom in Early N. Y. Market

The New York Curb exchange, second largest securities market in the United States, acquired its name from the fact that it originated as an outdoor security market. Brokers stood in the streets and on the curbs in the New York financial district while trading in stocks and bonds, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune.

The "curb" market began functioning before the Civil war. It was without formal organization in the early days. Trading usually started about 8 o'clock in the morning and continued until there was no more business. After dark brokers frequently continued business in hotel lobbies.

One of the favorite evening meeting places for "curb" brokers was the old Fifth Avenue hotel at Twenty-third street. The corridors of the hotel eventually became known as "Gallagher's Exchange," and trading often continued far into the night.

Most of the business, however, was conducted outdoors. The brokers were driven from their favorite meeting places several times by increasing traffic in the financial district. The market did not move indoors until 1921, although by 1911 a definite administrative organization was functioning.

Birth Stones

The list of birthstones representing each month of the year and their meanings, originally selected by the late Dr. George F. Kunz, president of Tiffany and Company, listing ancient, first, and modern, second, follows: January, garnet, hyacinth; February, amethyst, amethyst; March, jasper, bloodstone; April, sapphire, diamond; May, agate, emerald; June, emerald, agate; July, onyx, ruby; August, carnelian, topaz; September, chrysolite, beryl; October, aquamarine, pearl; November, topaz, opal; December, ruby, bloodstone. The American National Retail Jewelers' association at its convention in Kansas City in 1912 adopted a list that differs from the Tiffany modern list, in that it carries for January, garnet; March, aquamarine; June, pearl; August, sardonyx; September, sapphire; October, opal, and December, turquoise. The garnet is credited with endowing the wearer with constancy and fidelity; the amethyst betokens sincerity; bloodstone, courage and truthfulness; diamond, innocence; emerald, happiness; pearl, health and long life; ruby, a contented mind; sardonyx, felicity; sapphire, wisdom; opal, hope; topaz, fidelity; turquoise, prosperity and success.

Jeweled Eggs at Easter

According to Herbert P. Whitlock, curator of gems of the American Museum of Natural History, the custom of exchanging eggs at Easter was a very old one in imperial Russia. According to an ancient legend, Mary Magdalene gave the Roman emperor, Tiberius, a hen's egg dyed red as a symbol of the risen Christ. Up to the close of the World war, the great mass of the Russian people yearly gave one another hen's eggs dyed red. Among the wealthier class, eggs carved from the variously colored Russian decorative stones were used. The emperor, Alexander III, inaugurated the custom of presenting to the empress at every Easter-tide a specially elaborate and costly egg designed by the court jeweler.

Wrote "Alice in Wonderland"
Llandudno, Wales, is the Atlantic City of that country and one of the chief seaside resorts of the British Isles. It is situated on the north coast, facing the Irish sea. It was on the sand-hills of Llandudno beach that Dr. Charles L. Dodgson (Lewis Carroll) used to stroll with the children of his host, Dean Liddell. A white marble marker was placed there to commemorate those walks. The inscription reads: "On this very shore, during happy rambles with little Alice Liddell, Lewis Carroll was inspired to write that literary treasure, 'Alice in Wonderland,' which has charmed children for generations."

Freeing the Slaves

The British set free the slaves in South Africa in 1834, but the decree was only partly effective, the Boers keeping their slaves and capturing more for several years afterward. American slaves were emancipated during the Civil war, 1862. While Brazil emancipated slaves in 1871, those who were infants at the time were required to remain in slavery until they were twenty-one.

Worked to Pay Passage
Steamship companies in the early days had systems whereby passengers in the lowest fare class could help pay for the trip by carrying wood for the boilers. When the boat stopped for fuel, these passengers would carry wood from storage places on the shore to the boiler rooms.

Urges Children's Eye Tests
(The New York Times)

ANBANY, Aug. 9—The State Commission for the Blind urged parents today to have their children's eyes tested and a physical examination made before the schools open next month. The commission estimates that 20 per cent of the new school pupils have defective vision, which, in many cases, could be remedied.
